

One day Planning Seminar for Principals, Deputies and Leaders in Education

Creating “The School of the Future – SOF”

Based on Learning Diversity, Teaching Styles & Vision planning

With Emeritus Professor Barbara Prashnig

Author, International Consultant, Learning Style Expert

This interactive seminar enables participants to:

- experience creative learning methods for enhancing long-term memory
- understand human diversity based on learning styles
- interpret and compare LSA profiles
- see the importance of LSA group profiles for classroom teachers
- get to know the TSA instrument and its benefits for principals and managers
- gain insight how the TSA can be used for staff development
- understand matches and mismatches between teaching and learning styles
- appreciate learning style classrooms (from primary schools to Colleges)
- reconsider professional skills needed for the future
- ascertain which skills are already available in their management team
- utilise planning tools for creating a successful vision and mission for their own school
- build their vision and mission into the long-term development plan
- create an Action Plan for their courses/school incorporating current developments
- share their ideas with like-minded colleagues when presenting the Action Plan
- make a commitment towards creating ‘The School of the Future’
